

Agreeableness

Reflects how cooperative, compassionate, and trusting a person is. Individuals high in agreeableness tend to be kind, empathetic, and supportive, while lower levels may indicate a more competitive or skeptical nature.

Writing-style descriptions: Writing is warm, polite, and empathetic. Tone is supportive and cooperative, often using inclusive language (“we,” “us”), positive sentiment, and expressions of understanding or appreciation. Conflict and harsh criticism are usually avoided.

Gaphology-style Overall impression: Harmonious, balanced, people-oriented writing.

Slant: Slight right slant

- Indicates emotional openness, friendliness, and responsiveness to others.

Pressure: Light to medium

- Suggests gentleness, sensitivity, and non-aggressive expression.

Spacing (words/lines): Even, comfortable spacing

- Reflects respect for boundaries and consideration for others.

Size: Medium

- Neither attention-seeking nor withdrawn; socially balanced.
- Page usage: Well-distributed text, consistent margins
- Indicates cooperation, orderliness, and desire for harmony.